In città

In most Italian cities the main train station has an Ufficio informazioni, which provides tourists with lists of available accommodations (hotels, pensioni [guesthouses], ostelli [hostels]) and assists in making reservations.

Many cities and towns also have a tourist office called the A.P.T. (Azienda di Promozione Turistica), which provides information about accommodations, transportation, tours, and reservations.

Tickets for city buses, streetcars, and the metropolitana (the subway in Rome, Milan, Naples, and Turin) must be purchased at a Tabacchi store or a newsstand before boarding.
